Year 5/6 Homework

Max Modal

Max Modal is struggling with his homework. He must identify which of the sentences below contain a modal verb. Help Max by ticking the sentences that contain a modal verb.

1. I like chocolate because it tastes nice.
2. My mum said we might go on holiday at half term.
3. The plane flew through the sky.
4. You must finish your work before break.
5. The special visitor will arrive later today.
6. After dinner, I finished my homework.

Now help Max by underlining the modal verb in each sentence below:

1. If she entered the competition, Nicole might win a prize.
2. It would have been great if we won the football match.
3. We will complete the activity if we work together.
4. Lexi's mum said that she should always try her best at school.
5. "Yes you may go to the toilet," the teacher said.

Adverbs of Possibility

In addition to modal verbs, some adverbs can be used to describe how likely it is that something will happen. These are called 'adverbs of possibility'. Some of the most common adverbs of possibility are:

certainly	definitely	maybe	possibly clearly	obviously	perhaps	probably

Use each word to write a sentence showing how it can be used. For example:

He is definitely coming to the party.

Maybe I'll win the lottery this week.
