Summer Journal

Congratulations on reaching the summer break! We hope you enjoy the sunny days, exploring new places, and creating wonderful memories.

To keep your English skills sharp and make the most of your summer adventures, we have a special homework assignment for you - a Summer Journal!

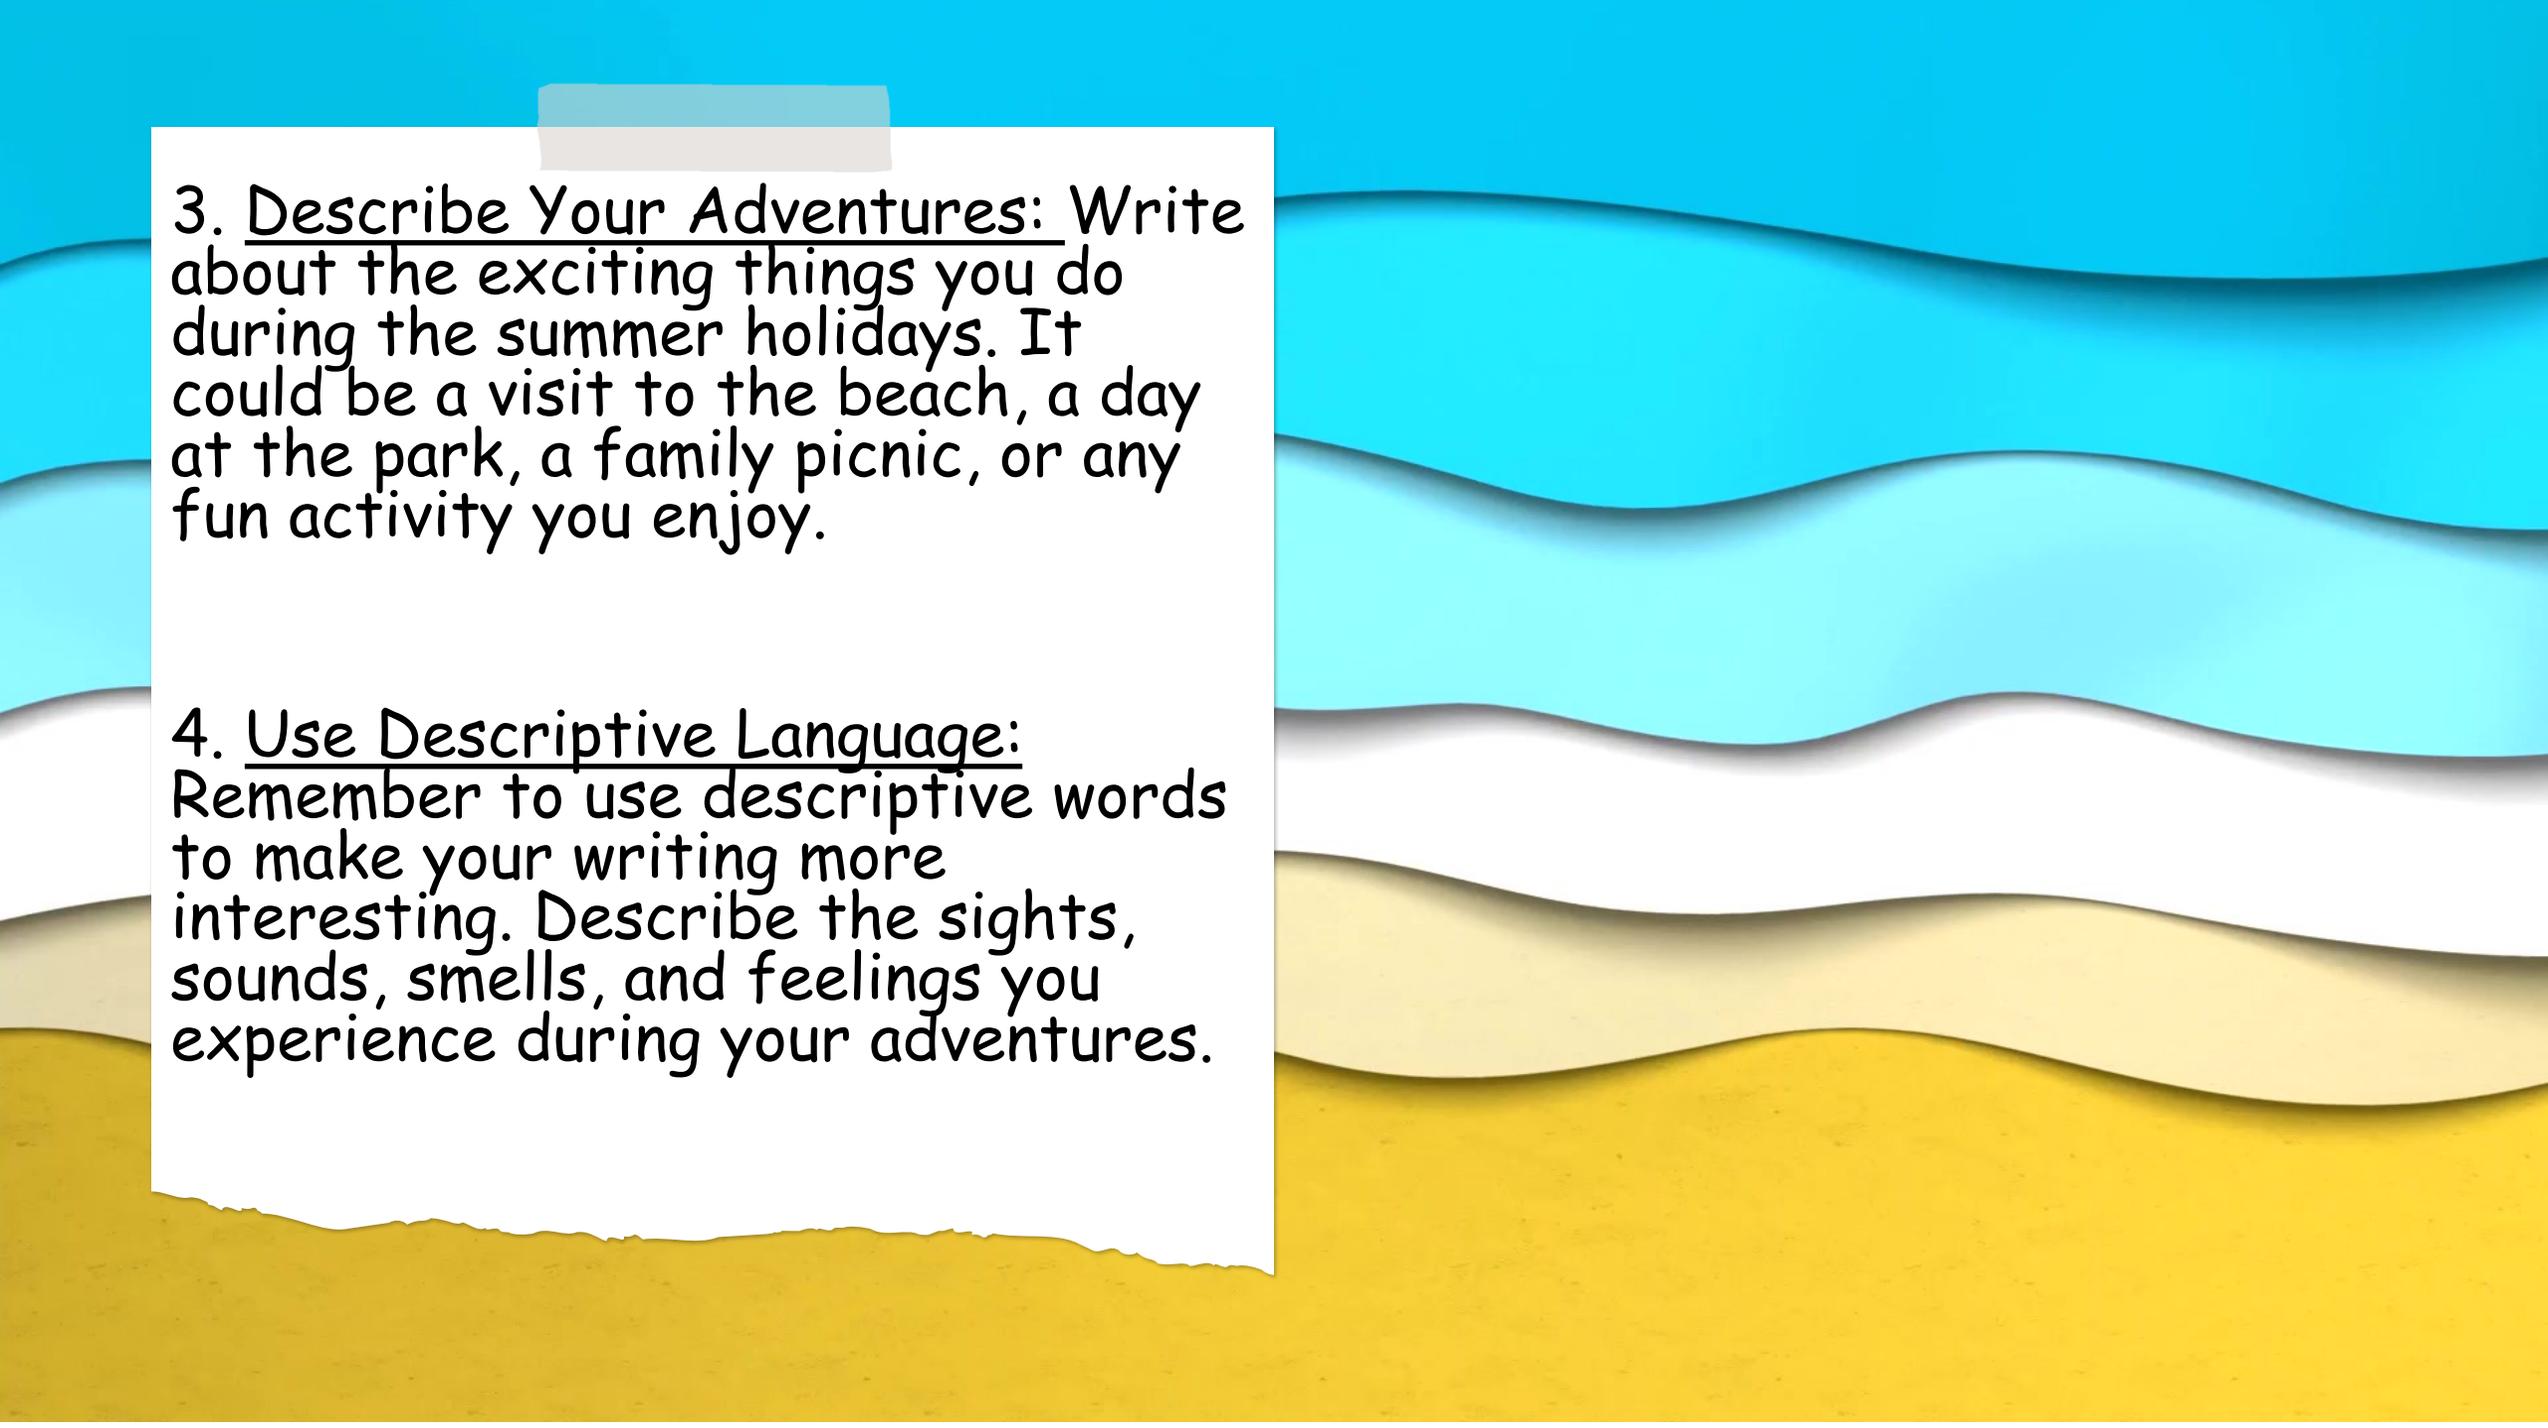

Instructions

Get a Journal: Find a notebook or diary that you'll dedicate to your Summer Journal. You can decorate the cover with summer-themed drawings or stickers to make it uniquely yours.

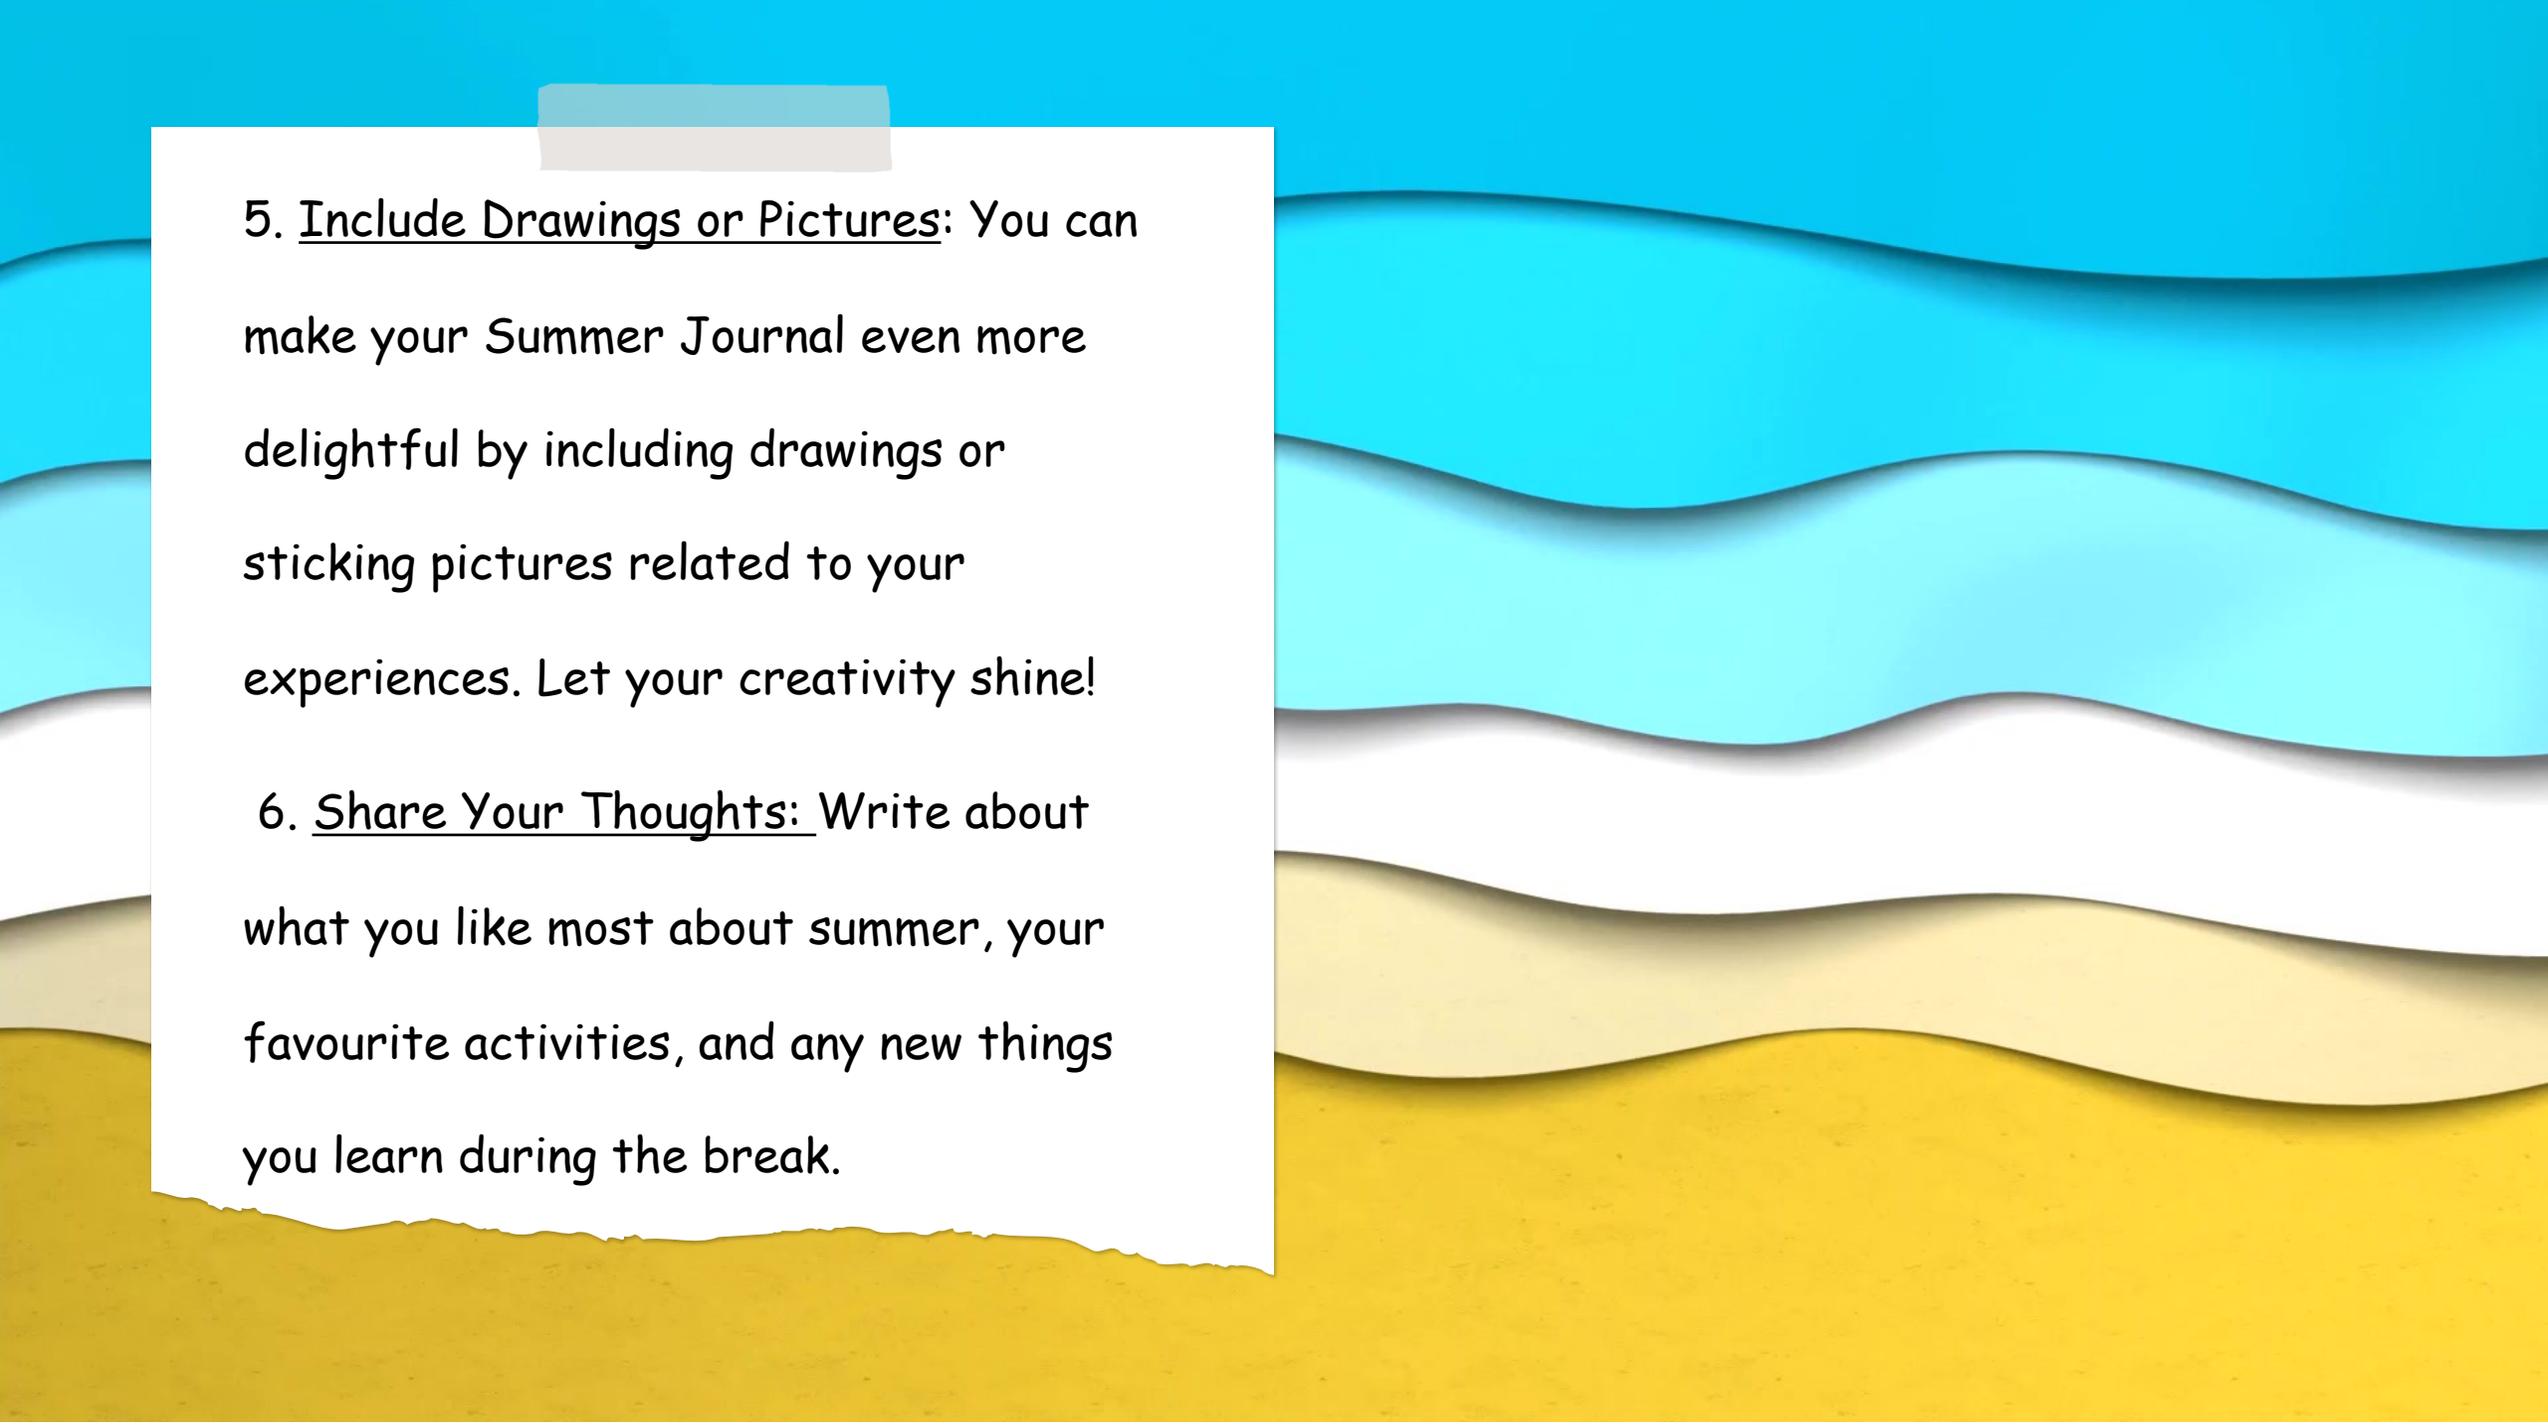

2. Write Daily or Weekly: Try to write in your Summer Journal every day or at least once a week. You can choose the best time that suits your schedule.

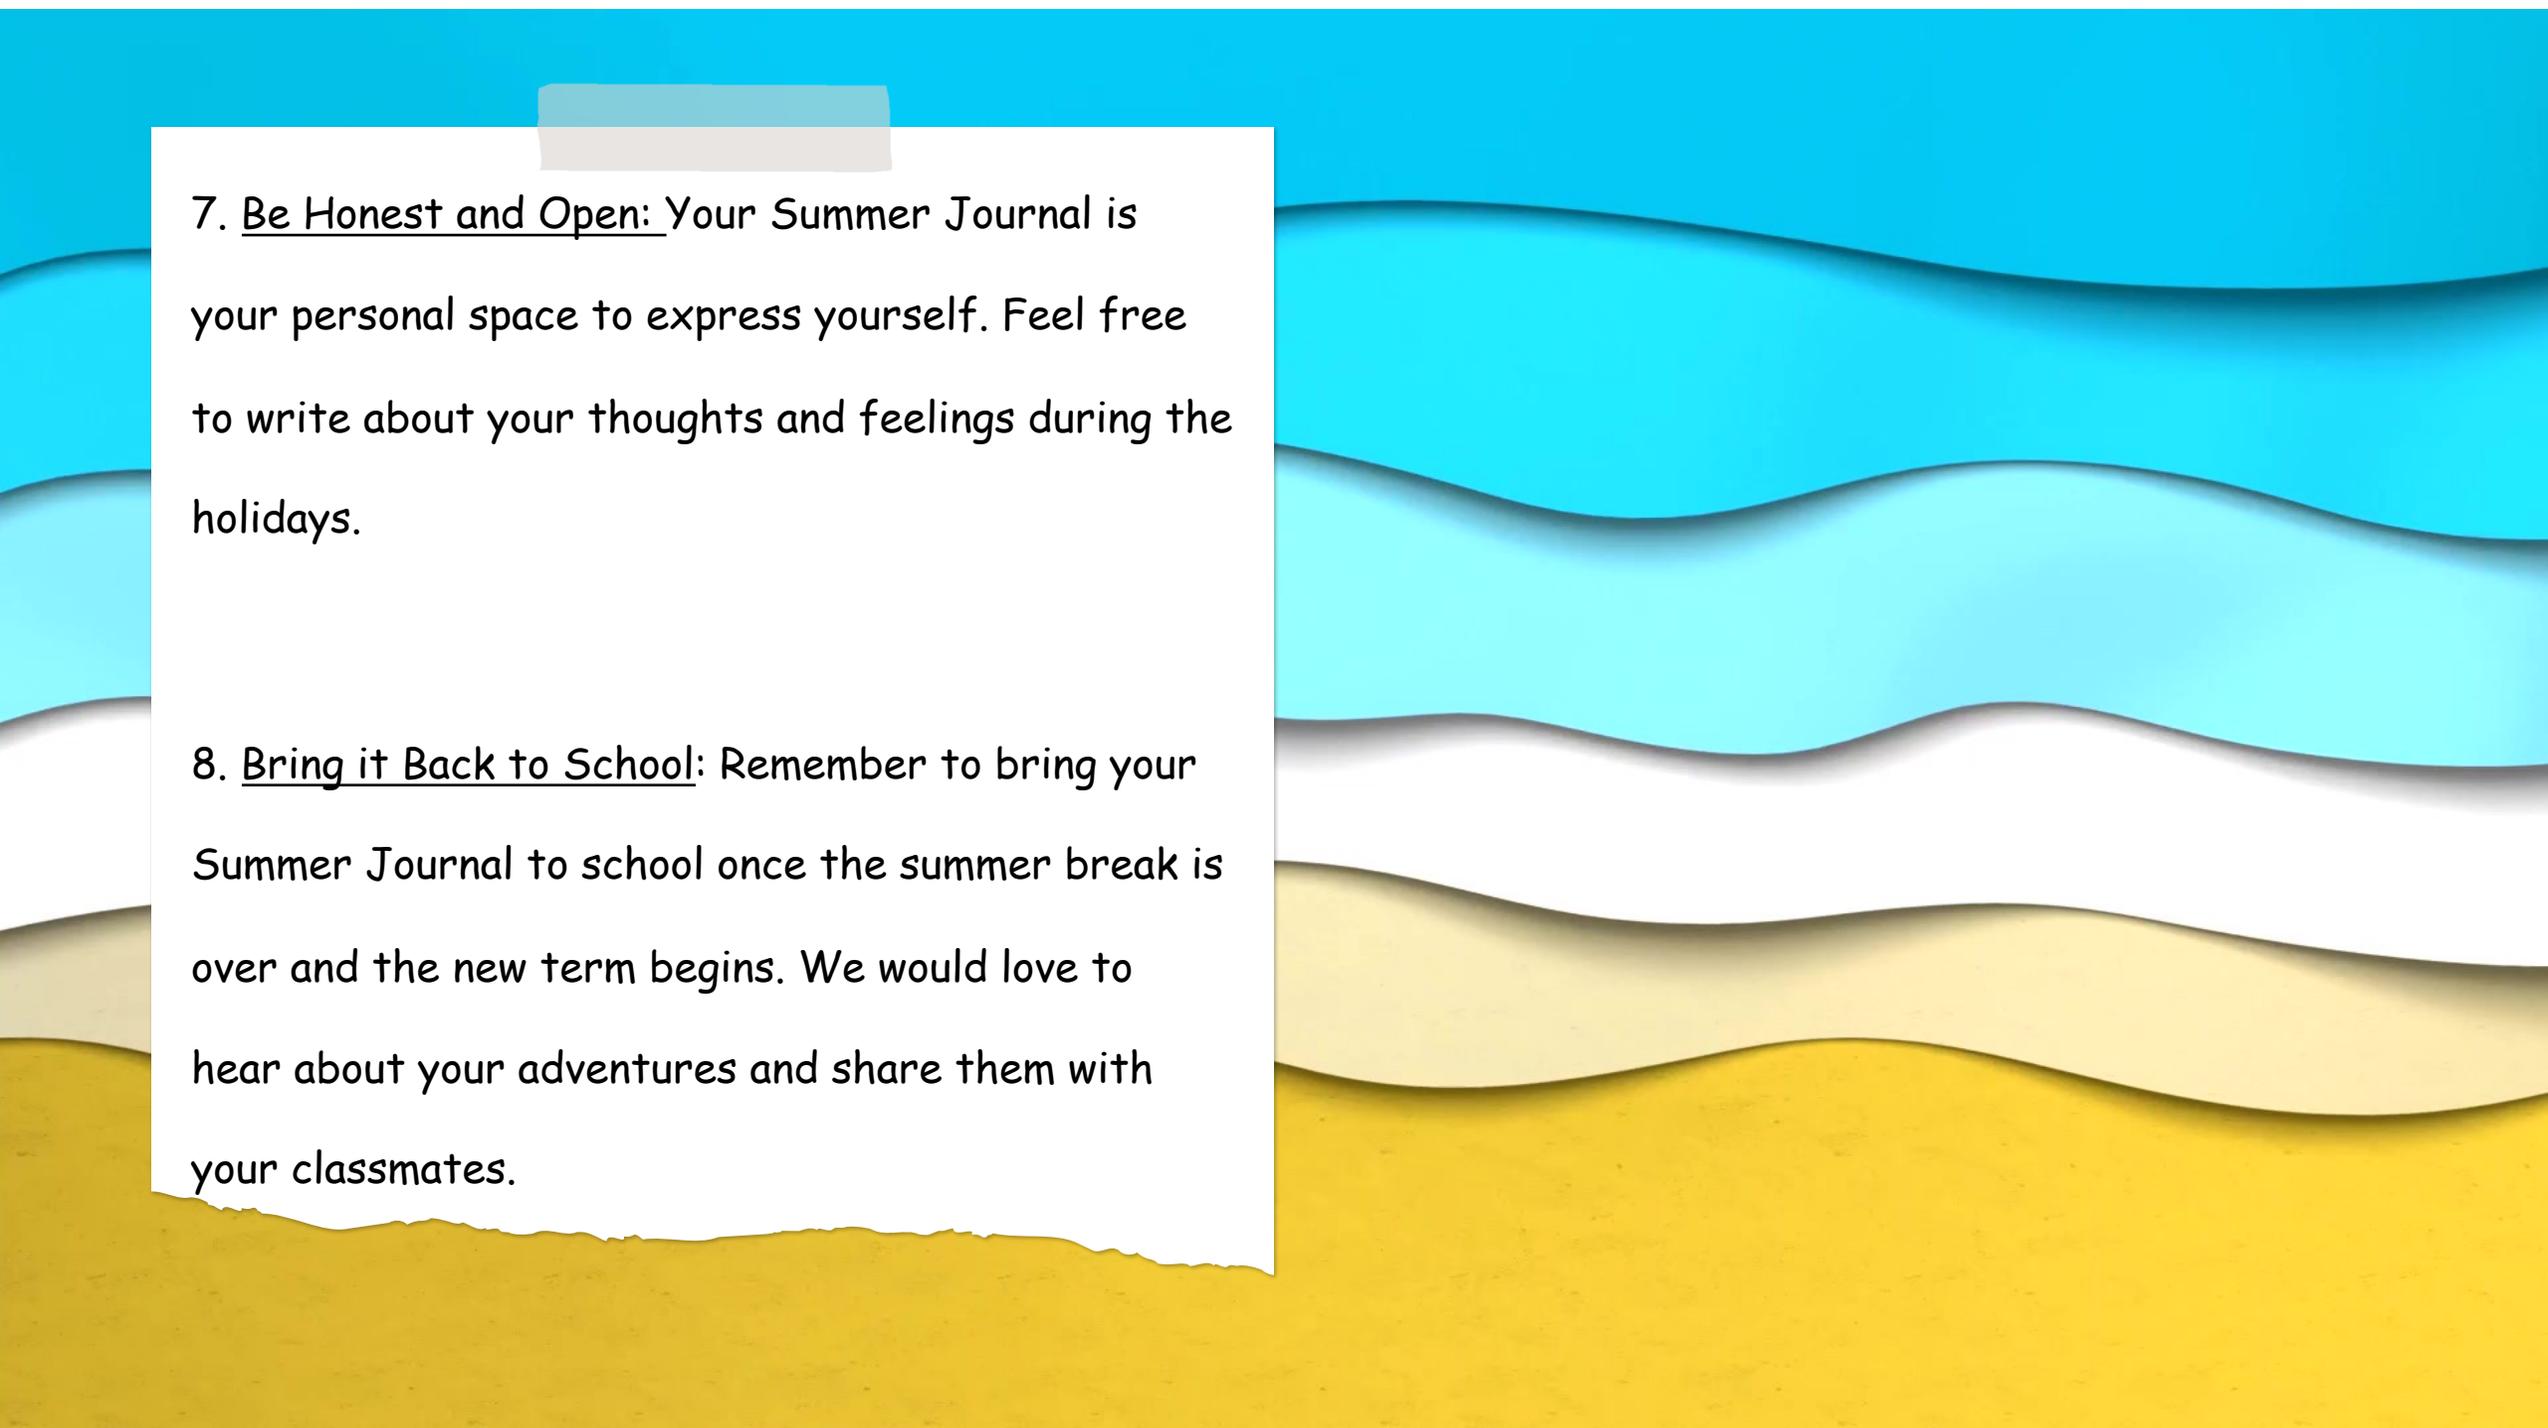

3. Describe Your Adventures: Write about the exciting things you do during the summer holidays. It could be a visit to the beach, a day at the park, a family picnic, or any fun activity you enjoy.

4. Use Descriptive Language: Remember to use descriptive words to make your writing more interesting. Describe the sights, sounds, smells, and feelings you experience during your adventures.

5. Include Drawings or Pictures: You can make your Summer Journal even more delightful by including drawings or sticking pictures related to your experiences. Let your creativity shine!

6. Share Your Thoughts: Write about what you like most about summer, your favourite activities, and any new things you learn during the break.

7. Be Honest and Open: Your Summer Journal is your personal space to express yourself. Feel free to write about your thoughts and feelings during the holidays.

8. Bring it Back to School: Remember to bring your Summer Journal to school once the summer break is over and the new term begins. We would love to hear about your adventures and share them with your classmates.

Tips

- Keep your handwriting neat and legible so you can enjoy reading your journal later.
- Use colourful pens or pencils to make your journal visually appealing.
- Take your Summer Journal with you when you go on trips or outings so you can write about your experiences right away.
